Showcase description

My name is Chiara D'Aleo. I am an Italian freelance designer and I live in Malta. I have a visionary and multidisciplinary approach to interior design, product and graphic design, styling, set design, style consultancy and trend forecasting. I can develop for each client a made-to-measure approach based on observation, analysis and intuition, taking care over every aspect of the project: from the image to advising on the concept and catalogue style, designing showrooms, site-specific installations and design events. I have graduated in Product and Graphic Design at Istituto Europeo di Design in Milan (IED). In 2003 I received a selection for "Premio Compasso d'Oro ADI - 20th edition - Young section", for Final Grade Project (plays / accessories for children). From 2008 to 2012 I was an assistant and a teacher at IED Istituto Europeo di Design of Milan. I live in Malta since 2012, I work as a freelance designer and I am developing packaging solutions for the beauty industry and other selected market niches.
