Showcase description

I?m a young and brilliant Product Designer that has decided to turn his passion into his own work. Every new project is an adventure, a challenge where put all of myself and my creativity to design something always different, innovative and emotional. Because for me an object is not mere matter, but a totality of technique, cure and passion to instill in each person that will use it. I?m constantly in search of new incentives, I stretch through various product branches, from furniture to appliances, to accumulate experiences and knowledges that will make me a complete professional figure. Currently I work as a Freelance Product Designer with some studios and artisans near Biella (Piedmont, Italy), including Luisa Bocchietto's Architecture and Design studio. Depending on the requests, I deal with the design, modeling and rendering of objects and architectures. I'm able to use various programs such as Adobe Photoshop, Adobe Illustrator and Adobe Indesign very well, without forgetting Rhinoceros 3D and V-ray. I've also some basic knowledge about Autocad and Maya softwares, and i'm always trying to learn new programs and technologies. One day I wish to design toys, blending my technic abilities wit my great imagination.
