Showcase description

My name is Julia Caroti and work as a freelance copywriter and Strategic Planner. I'm a sunny person, determined, focused on problem solving and innovation. In my experience I have developed a good set of skills as part of integrated communications and marketing strategies, measures directly in the field with a different reality: a stylish design, the financial sector to the insurance, real estate from the general contractor. The diversity of clients and an innate curiosity for me is a source of motivation for the study of trends and for a continuous updating of my knowledge, especially as regards the web markenting and new media. In my current position I am often online campaigns, websites, customized application and social networking activities. Offered as a copywriter and web collaboration strategist and consultant for integrated communications. For more information on my profile please contact me. Julia Caroti
