Showcase description

For more than ten years working as communication and web designer. Initially I focused on graphic design, integrated communication, user experience and HTML+CSS technicalities. In 2010 I co-founded my first company, an agency dedicated to integrated communication, new media and video that allowed me to learn managing, accounting, user experience and creative direction skills. I worked on large and small projects, for corporations and for startups. From a solid technical-executive background to a creative direction and digital strategy I provide feasible and creative solutions in every communication, advertising and marketing project.
