Showcase description

mtprogetti srl is specialised in goods design, engineering, planning and setting up of all tools in the production support for the manufacturing of plastic items in order to guarantee the maximal valorization of the production efficiency and to bring down the production costs. Our clients give us the responsibility of the development of their products and they are followed from the research phase to the final production. With reference to mould design, we offer advantageous alternatives to traditional technologies, such as twin-colours and co-injection mouldings and even in-process fastening and/or assembling, that are commonly used methods in the production of items for packaging, food, cosmetics, housewares, medical, electronics, lighting, communication, furnishings, toys&leisure goods and automotive industry components.
