Showcase description

Hello to everyone, my name is Ambra and I am an Italian young woman of 26 years. I?m graduated at the Art School Caravaggio in Milan where I studied graphic and where I took the specialization of the "Leonardo Project" (A scholastic course of three years of lenght). Since I was a child I wanted to draw cartoons, video games characters or do the comic: this, thanks to the charm of Disney masterpieces but also the most current semi-newborn animes and mangas: Clearly it appears in my stroke type, there are infact strong calls to both types of illustration. Actually I can say that my dream was partly realized during the years; infact, I draw (which is my vocation) but I do it for advertising, as a graphic designer and illustrator. Drawing for me is expressing myself. According to me, comunication through images is very useful to convey a message: my goal is to transmit, with my style, all those lessons that life has given me until now. A bit like Madonna's song "Live to Tell". And I do with my style, and the passion that I put in the drawing. Draw and communicate, according to my personal philosophy of life, is crucial for Humanity, is a mean to re-find out human relationships, that warmth feeling, and that sense of solidarity among human beings, that in these years are going to get lost. My drawing style, as everyone could see, is up to date, because it refers to the modern Japanese mangas and animes, but also naive and tender, like a Disney cartoon, is the way to attract attention and convey, in the most humble and gently manners as possible,that message. After school I jumped immediately into the world of work and I began to experience as a saleswoman in a clothing store outside Milan. In the Following of this brief experience, I embarked on a career as a secretary several times, but especially distinguishing myself at several companies as a graphic designer and skilled illustrator from 2008 to today. In particular I have experiencenced in Pirelli Tyre as a web designer of HTML pages enjoing a fantastic team; it was one of my most beautiful experiences, but especially in a small advertising agency, with which I still have a strong friendship but also cooperation, distribuited over some year: Strategy Systems s.n.c. in Cologno M.se. Of all the places where I was this team was the best in terms of human relationship but also in training: I sincerely thank them all with joy, also for introducing me to this site. Among the various knowledge from graphic package such as Adobe, and Photoshop, Illustrator, Freehand, X-Press, InDesign, I have decent knowledge in Flash. I have good programming skills in HTML and CSS, I earned a bachelor suite, as well as Corel Draw, Power Point, Word, Excel, discreet, but some programs like Magix combination of sounds, and a bit of Soundtrack Pro, for creating soundtracks. Use of two languages, English good level of understanding and speaking, but also Japanese. I can Use Media Signage Player and Media Signage Studio. I also use Mac OS as well as PC. I think after this long conversation now is the time of greetings. For contacts, call me at 07509206267, always available, or write me at: brambillambra@gmail.com.
