Showcase description

I love to experiment, read, update me continually discover new languages, innovate. My university studies in science and prior to those graphics and art directing, (at the time I wanted to "save the world" through the law and the international economy) gave me a mindset that on the one hand allows me to mitigate the my creative nature by using a methodology in the study and analysis of a brand in the whole process of definition of the creative project, on the other hand, to have one always looking at what happens in the world. This is why I consider myself an extremely reliable, who likes to work and work hard to achieve a result. That which I work? Branding, corporate identity, advertising, design and green marketing, social media marketing, events, design, digital design, app interface design, and packaging.
