Showcase description

Hi, My name is Ilaria and I'm 35 years old, I live in Lissone, a small town in the north of Milan. I graduated in April 2003 in industrial design at Politecnico in Milan and in 2005 I earned a master's degree at IED in Turin. My education, as well as my work experience, involves many different aspects of the design environment, from graphics to out-fitting, from product designing to nautical. My first steps in the world of work were at design firms dealing with product, then I addressed my attention to interior design (stand, exhibitions and homes) but thanks to some of my projects and to the participation in various contests, I've never left my other passions. My mind is always on the go, I like to know and observe everything around me and quite often what I see behind my eyes, becomes immediately a new project in my mind, changing use, materials, shape and size. I make a sketch to imprint the idea and once arrived at home I try to realize it, checking if it is achievable. My passions include reading, movies, travel and sport; I am very active, proactive and I let that creative moments fully take myself.
