Showcase description

I've studied and worked in a field that let me focus on my great passions: writing and drawing. Thinking about the way in which I can play with my creativity, watching images become real things... it makes me feel excited and curious about life. I hope and I want to communicate in a clear and direct way with people, with few important details. Sociology is the center of my researches, I'd like to learn new things and different jobs and way of working. I really want to create something like an ideal bridge between our two parallel worlds: real world and mediatic world. Go on straight but keeping in mind who we are, communicating.
