

FedericaR

Journalist

Location: Italy > Sicilia > Messina

Years of Experience: 5

Employment Search: Si

Internships Available: No

Showcase description

Email: federicaragonese@gmail.com I am a freelance journalist with experience in the journalism and communications fields, as well as in Italian-English translations and vice versa. I am a native speaker of Italian and have an excellent knowledge and fluent speaking of English, which was further developed while attending university in London and working there for two years as a journalist. I have graduated with a first-class honours degree in Journalism and Applied Economics from Kingston University, London, in 2015. My latest full-time role was Deputy Editor at the London-based business-to-business magazine Container Management, where I worked for two years. While working for Container Management, I also held the role of Politics Editor for the online platform The IPF (International Press Foundation). I would like to continue working in the journalism field.
