Showcase description

The youthful passion for drawing has always led me to choose training courses linked to creativity, first with the artistic high school and then with a degree in architecture and interior design that allowed me to deepen my interests in technical terms. The subsequent training was completed in the field of furniture for commercial and residential spaces in companies in the sector in which I worked. These companies have been a privileged observatory, useful for understanding the evolution of a sector in which the importance of image and communication have now become an integral part of the success of each activity.
