Showcase description

I am passionate about technology and cinema since I was a child, first as a self-taught person and then thanks to school I deepened my knowledge and got to put it into practice. I try to make as many experiences as possible, not only related to the cinema, because I am convinced that from each of them we can derive something positive and useful for the future. What to do is to become a part of the cinema's world as a director. Experiencing similar fields is useful and necessary in order to fully understand this job, how it works and make it a passion not only for themselves but also for those around them.
