Showcase description

I am an illustrator and graphic designer based in Genoa, Italy. I?ve been drawing all my life and I like to observe and understand the natural world with a scientific approach. In my training carreer I have alwais mixed artistic and scientific studies. After artistic high school, I graduated in Natural Sciences with a thesis on scientific illustration. I have been working as illustrator and graphic designer since 2001. In the field of popular science I made the graphic design of several museums, exhibitions, laboratories and university projects. I am a versatile illustrator, I am comfortable with different techniques and styles, from children?s illustration to vector infographics, but my passion is scientific and naturalistic illustration.
