Showcase description

Who I am My name is Amalia Cipriani and I am a digital communication consultant based in Turin, Italy. I have nearly six years of experience in digital marketing, with a strong background in writing, creativity and strategic communication. My key strength is adaptability: I can speak different professional languages while always keeping the message clear and effective. What I do I work as a Social Media, Digital Marketing, SEO and Copywriting Consultant. I help professionals and businesses build a strong, human and consistent online presence by managing social media, blogs, newsletters and digital campaigns. I turn complexity into clarity, creating content that is practical, engaging and results-driven. What I want to do I want to keep working with professionals and brands who value clear communication, strong strategy and authentic storytelling. My goal is to support businesses in developing a digital presence that builds trust, connection and long-term results.
