Showcase description

Instagram @elenapiccolboni @lenypony_ There is a part of me that has never stopped sitting on the floor, surrounded by illustrated books and blank sheets of paper. That is where my work begins ? from a simple, instinctive gesture that over time has become a language. Drawing is my space for listening and freedom. It is the way I observe the world, capture its details and turn them into images when words are not enough. Through illustration, I look for a balance between emotion and form, between what is intimate and what can be shared. I am interested in using this language to enter people?s everyday lives, accompanying products and objects that are lived with, touched and chosen. I believe in images that do not shout, but stay ? images that tell stories gently and build an authentic connection with those who encounter them.
